

DARREN MERCER

PRESIDENT

Darren Mercer now succeeds Robert S. Mercer as president of Mercer Construction. He will be in charge of the company's day-to-day operations and will direct all activities within the administration.

Darren Mercer has vast experience in management and cost estimating which includes a full range of building and engineering projects. He has been involved in all aspects of construction cost estimates including design phase budget estimates, price proposals for negotiated work, and competitive bid quotations.

Darren Mercer joined his family's business in 1983 after several years of gained construction experience as a subcontractor in the drywall and steel trades. He learned field operations as a project superintendent and then began working in the office as an estimator. His varied experience in commercial construction made him an asset to Mercer Construction.

Darren has the ability to communicate in a professional manner with Developers and Owners and has a great relationship with Subcontractors. Along with his communicating ability and his vast experience, he will fulfill the President position as he oversees all departments within Mercer Construction.
